[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO FEBRUARY 11.

The French Elections.

HAVRE, Feb. 10.—Le Flo and Trochu are among the candidates elected to the Assembly from the Department of Finisterre.

VERSAILLES, Feb. 10.—Returns from eleven departments in the elections give majorities to the Orleanists and clerical candidates, and to but very few Republicans.

The duration of the armistice will probably be extended in order that the Assembly may have time to perfect the work of restoration.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The following are doubtless elected to the Assembly: Messrs. Blanch, Rochefort, Blachi, De Lesciansor, Flourens, Rollin, Dorian, Quonet and Volante.

The Orleans interest is believed to be strong throughout the country.

Dispatches from Versailles.

VERSAILLES, Feb 10.—Yesterday eighty field guns and 150,000 rifles were delivered at Cury and Vanves.

Favre is in favor at headquarters.

The Crown Prince has arrived and announces the District occupied by the Second Army Corps as peacefully disposed.

Things look gloomy to-day, and an explanation of the cause is precluded.

Paris may be entered before the 19th. Preparations are making for a heavy bombardment should it be possible for complications to occur.

The attitude of the city is apathetic and a reaction is expected.

Bismarck is again quite ill. His state causes great uneasiness.

A prolongation of the armistice depends on the temper of the National Assembly toward the Prussian demand for territory, money and dismantling of forts.

From Bordeaux.

BORDEAUX, Feb. 10.—Charente, L'Nofericure, the Hauts Alps, Vignon, Dijon and Toulon have elected Republican candidates.

The departments of Nantes, Creuse, Auchlot, Garonne and Loire have elected conservative, moderate or liberal union candidates.

Heavy Storm on the European Coast.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 11.—The Courier says that a French transport with one hundred and twenty souls has been lost.

There has been a violent gale all along the coast. Six ships are ashore on South Shields, and several lives were lost. Numerous wrecks are apprehended.

Cattle Plague in France.

BREST, Feb. 10.—The veritable plague has broken out among the cattle for provisioning Paris. The mortality has been frightful, and complete sanitary orders have been established. The carcasses of those dying are placed on board dismantled ships, and are then towed out to sea and sunk.

England's "Advice."

BRUSSELS, Feb. 11.—The Echo du Parliament says England's advice to Prussia is to arbitrate terms of peace to secure European guarantee.

Miscellaneous Dispatches.

LILLE, Feb. 10.—The Republican majorities in this city are 25 per cent. monarchical. In the Provinces, 50 per cent.

There will be no decision respecting the prolongation of the armistice until it is seen what chance there is of the National Assembly concluding peace.

A conservative result of the French elections is ascertained.

There is a report that the Prussians sent an army corps on Thursday, resolved to carry Belfort by assault.

The Boicen, the first American vessel in ten years, has arrived at Bologne with food for Paris.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The following consular appointments were gazetted on Friday: Archibald, for New York; Kortright, for Philadelphia; Murray, for Portland; Henderson, for Boston; Brooker, for San Francisco; Donahue, for New Orleans; Raitalle, for Baltimore.

FLORENCE, Feb. 10.—Lances told the Chambers that the rumored enrollment of Papal troops is untrue. The Government will comply and repress any movement of the sort.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Military Reserves to be Vacated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The House Committee on Military Affairs reported back the Senate bill to provide for the disposition of useless military reservations with amendments. The Senate amendments were agreed to and the bill passed. It authorizes the sale of military reservations at Forts Lane and Walla Walla, Oregon; Fort Scott, Kansas; Camp McGarry, Nevada; Fort Sumner, New Mexico; Forts Jessup and Sabine, Louisiana; Forts Wayne and Smith, Arkansas, and such portion of Fort Abercrombie as lies east of the Red River of the North, and such portions of Fort Bridger, Wyoming, as are no longer required for military purposes.

Opinions with regard to the Negotiations with England.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Washington dispatches indicate that there is a certain degree of disaffection among the minority of both Houses, with regard to the Commission for the arrangement of the Alabama claims, founded principally on the delay that claimants will suffer. They say that the members of the Commission will probably remain out of session the greater part of the time between March and the meeting of Congress in December next, but if they agree to the treaty, the Senate may spend considerable time in consideration, and at least a year must pass before the question at issue between the two Governments can be adjusted. Then, they say, there there will be more delay before the claimants can establish their claims and get their money. They add, too, that correspondence published leaves the powers of the Commission very uncertain; that they may be construed to include all questions of every nature that may have arisen between the two countries, and negotiations may result in a treaty which will be no more acceptable than the one so unanimously rejected by the Senate. They demand that the bills now before the Senate and House Foreign Committees be reported, so that the United States may assume and pay these claims, and afterward settle with Great Britain. On the other hand a majority of the Senators and Representatives express their approval.

The President's plan points to the men who represent the United States on the Commission as a sufficient guarantee that whatsoever is agreed to by them will be acceptable to the people.

The message of the President accompanying the correspondence and which was not made public, contains nothing of interest, being an introduction to the letters which follow.

EASTERN STATES.

The Steamer Tennessee.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Commodore Alden, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, who superintended the embarkation of the St. Domingo Commissioners, emphatically contradicts the rumors regarding the unseaworthiness of the Tennessee, although sensation mongers have created an alarm in the minds of those who have relatives and friends on board. Still those best capable of judging see as yet no existing cause for apprehension.

The Tennessee seen at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—The bark ——, W. E. Anderson, Captain, from Prussia, reports that on January 19th it was blowing a strong gale from the northeast, with heavy seas. She passed a large man-of-war steamer standing southward, under close reefed topsails, in latitude 36, longitude 72 degrees 50 minutes. She was steaming slowly. The Captain is sure this steamer was the Tennessee.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—It having been hinted that Mrs. H. Hand, No. 333 Clementina street, who died on the 7th, came to her death by foul play, her body was exhumed by the Coroner, and an examination demonstrated the fact that abortion had been produced. Dr. Charles O'Donnell, who is already charged with the murder of the French woman some months since, has been taken in custody, but no charge has yet been preferred against him in this case.

Late last night the officers made a raid through Chinatown, and arrested and locked up fourteen Chinamen charged with manufacturing cigars without a license. It is alleged that they worked at night exclusively, their places being closed up in the day time, and nothing left to indicate that such work was carried on.

The schooner Francis E. Steele has been purchased by Mrs. Captain Brown, who will take her out to Cocas Island, under the direction of spirits, to recover the Pirate treasure. Mrs. Brown is said to have been the prime mover in the former attempts to recover the supposed treasure. She still finds parties ready to invest to aid her scheme.

Second Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—The Stock Board to-day abolished all Saturday afternoon sessions, or trading in the rooms between the close of the regular Board on Saturday and the opening of the same on Monday morning.

The French relief fund raised by the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has already reached $5,000. As much more will probably be raised. This is exclusive of the $1,000 subscribed by the Stock Board, and which was sent to New York direct.

Mrs. Hirsch, 558 Minna street, left home last night. She was insane from recent sickness, and it is feared she has committed suicide.

Daniel Murphy, late sole manager of the City Bank of Savings and Loan and Discount, was arrested to-day for issuing his name off a note for $1,000, which he had given a woman, who presented it for payment. He gave bail in the sum of $1,000, and is to answer to a charge of felony.

The City Hall Commissioners have awarded $2,500, $2,000, $1,500 and $1,000, for the four best plans for a City Hall, and to the next best, $500 each.

In the case of Mrs. Adelaide Hand who, it is alleged, died from the effects of abortion, the Coroner's jury to-day rendered a verdict as follows:

"The jurors convened to inquire into the cause of the death of Adelaide Hand, find the deceased a native of Connecticut, aged twenty-nine years, and that she came to her death from Peritonitis Enteritis, consequent upon an abortion having been produced upon her in the city of San Francisco on or about January 20th, by Dr. C. C. O'Donnell." Dr. O'Donnell having been taken in custody by direction of the Coroner, the charge of murder was entered against him. He is to be examined on the charge of causing the death of Eugenie Chaurette, by the same means, on Friday next.

Postmaster General Vogel, of New Zealand, leaves for Washington to-morrow morning with a new agreement for the Australian steamship line.

Dispatches from Webb's agent in Washington, says there is hardly any doubt of the subsidy being voted by Congress.

The weather is clear and cool—will freeze to-night.

Dennis Jordan and others commenced a suit in the Fourth District Court to-day to compel Gen. Catoonia and other Directors of Mooney's late bank, to show cause why their election should not be set aside as fraudulent. The case is set for hearing on the 16th inst.

ARIZONA.

Indian Atrocities—Terrible State of Affairs

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11, via Corinne (Utah), Feb. 11.—The following telegram is received from Tucson (Arizona), Jan. 20th, via Santa Fe:

A terrible state of affairs exist throughout the Territory, in the face of opposite representations. The Apaches are multiplying their acts of theft and murder. Within the past two weeks they have captured a train, killed one man and wounded several others. Another train, between Phœnix and Wickersburg, was attacked, and a man named George Kane killed and eighteen mules driven off. Tully, Ochoa & Co's train was surprised ten miles south of Tuscon, and one man killed and all the stock stolen. The mail coach on its last downward trip was attacked near Phœnix, in the vicinity of Tubac, and one man named Joe. King was shot and mortally wounded, and a number of horses run off. At Florance thirty-three mules and one hundred head of cattle were stolen. General demoralization exists among the farmers. No one feels safe. Many are abandoning their property and fleeing from the Territory, glad to escape with their lives. Representatives from all parts of the Territory are at Tuscon for the purpose of devising means of protection from the savages.

An order has been received for the transfer of six companies of cavalry from Arizona to undisturbed Washington Territory.

Added to Indian horrors is that of the apparent determination of Mexican and other outlaws, to plunder the person and assassinate citizens along the Gila road, from Arizona City, 150 miles eastward. On December 24th, Mexican bandits massacred Charles Reider, James Rytle and Thomas Oliver at Mission Camp, sacked the station, stole six fine horses and escaped to Sonora, and have not been captured. The Government has offered $1,000 reward, and the citizens $500 more.

On the 21st ult., John Kilberd died from the effects of poison believed to have been administered at the instance of Mexican women.

On the 20th, half a dozen more men were poisoned, but survived, at Gila. It is believed to have been the work of Thomas W. Jones, acting in concert with Mexican outlaws. Governor Safford promptly offered a reward for the capture of Jones. Within 24 hours he was taken within 30 miles of the Mexican line, whither he was fleeing for safety.

The Governor addressed a message to the Legislature requesting authority to place not to exceed 20 [?] men, to the field in such emergency, to pursue, capture and return desperadoes. With active thieves, prisoners, murderers and hostile Apaches, and the unprotected foreign border, nearly all our boldest citizens, who never are noted for temerity, are abandoning their farms and stations, acknowledging what they never before did, that they are discouraged.

The Delegates from Arizona and New Mexico should present a bill to Congress for the protection of our southern border, and enlist the California and Texas Senators to report in our behalf.

Military Interference in Elections—A Chapter of Democratic History.

A few days ago the telegraph announced that Congressman Sargent of California had introduced a resolution in the House calling for copies of certain correspondence between Haight of California, President Johnson and General Halleck, relative to calling out the military at San Francisco at the last Presidential election. Haight it appears by the record thus unearthed, telegraphed to Johnson asking for authority to use the United States troops to quell any disturbance that might occur. The matter was referred to the Secretary of War, who notified Gen. Halleck, then commanding at San Francisco, to hold the troops in readiness. Halleck thereupon issued a military order that the troops be kept under arms from nine in the morning of election day till twelve at night, and that they be furnished with forty rounds of ammunition. A California paper comments on these developments as follows:

This is the record of Governor Haight, who is now so loud in his denunciation of the employment of the military at elections. This is the record of a Democratic Governor who seeks a renomination from his party, which will make the employment of the military at the polls one of the most prominent in the list of "Radical outrages," and no doubt Haight will hypocritically snivel and snuffle about it as persistently as any of them. The disclosures of this correspondence suggests the question as to which these repeated expositions of Haight's hypocritical, Pharisaical double-dealing are to end. The records show him to have approved the very acts in relation to railroad matters that he so loudly condemns, to have signed the Mercantile Library gambling bill, under which he is now personally urging officer Clark to attack all interior schemes of a similar character, and of various other peculiarities of conduct that it were the most liberal charity to term "inconsistent;" and now comes the damning fact that, with all his petty carping and fault finding, or exasperated denunciations of the terrible outrage of employing United States troops at the polls in New York and Philadelphia, that he, himself should without having any reason to doubt the efficiency of the militia to preserve order, have telegraphed to the President and made his arrangements before the elections to have all of the United States troops around San Francisco brought into the city whenever he should give command. Fortunately the services of these troops were not required, and the election, thanks to the efficiency of Chief Crowley, passed off quietly, but had Major Jack Stratman turned out with a score of the Grant Invincibles and come within the line of Haight's vision, there is little doubt but he would have been frightened into a conniption fit, and called upon General Halleck to rally his forces at once. We shall await with anxiety the next disclosure concerning the inconsistency of our "virtuous, pure and Heavenly" Governor.

Necessity for Diversified Industry.

We have often attempted to show that a greater diversification of industries is the best means of promoting a higher degree of prosperity in agricultural communities like Oregon. In a recent address delivered in Georgia, Horace Capron, Commissioner of Agriculture, gave the farmers some practical advice on the same subject. We quote:

The business of agriculture should be an industry and not a speculation. The insane pursuit of specialities has long been a curse to American Agriculture. The whole community runs wild upon hops, when selling at fifty cents per pound, and in two years they are scarcely worth the price of picking, and extravagance begotten in high expectation is forthwith followed by bankruptcy. Wheat brings $2 per bushel, and whole States become wheat fields, while every other interest languishes, until the bread crop becomes so abundant as to be fed to swine in preference to shipment for human food. The sheep, with wool at $1 per pound, holds a high place in popular esteem, but is kicked from the pasture by every Randolph of the farm, at the first indication of a heavy decline in the value of its fleece. Cotton, a great boon to agriculture as a constituent in the aggregate of production, may become an unmitigated evil if left to usurp the place of all other crops. The crop of last year [illegible] $100,000,000, more than [illegible] thirteen years ago. [illegible] million [illegible] their cost [illegible] consideration. [illegible] enlargement of the productive capacity of the soil, by a judicious rotation, including the restorative influences of [illegible] cattle-feeding, is an [illegible] source of larger annual increase [illegible] tion to the inheritance of one [illegible] not only insures a profit from [illegible] but enables the planter to [illegible] proceeds of its sale, other [illegible] man and beast. If England [illegible] labor, can make a dollar [illegible] produce two dollars, and [illegible] more delicate manipulation, [illegible] three. Why should not our people, with willing hands to work, and abundant water and fuel for power, manufacture a large [illegible] of our crops at least the [illegible] fabrics? and thus add to the annual value of our industries a hundred millions more. Thus may be saved freight, storage, commissions, the profit of manufacture, while local markets may be built up to consume more of the edible products of our agriculture.

A Demagogue Photographed.

The Marysville Appeal notes that the editorial staff of the Sacramento Reporter boasts a satirist of no ordinary caliber. The manner in which he scorches Governor Haight every day, without departing from the requirements of orthodox Democracy, is vastly amusing. The fact that the Governor attended an anti-railroad caucus in San Francisco, and agreed to be the candidate of faction for Governor, that his [illegible] embodies the same proposition. [illegible] and his friends are moving heaven and earth to force this issue upon the Democratic party are matters, says the Appeal, [illegible] knowledge of every citizen. Read, then, the following:

Second, as to the assertions that Governor Haight is endeavoring to [illegible] railroads to a party issue. [illegible] relieve these statements, and must repudiate them for the reasons following: Mr. Haight has been Governor for over three years; during his term of office there have been two sessions of the Legislature; at those sessions eighteen or twenty bills, more or less, were passed providing for granting local aid to railroads; one of those bills (and that he approved) ordered a county to give aid to a certain railroad without reference to the wishes of the people; the others provided that the people of the county interested [illegible] in the matter of aid by a vote; only one of all the railroad aid bills passed by both Legislatures did the Governor veto, and that was on a matter of [illegible] not affecting the general principle. [illegible] on a general law allowing the people [illegible] ty to vote, if they desired, a certain [illegible] aid to railroads, which was passed [illegible] vision and approved by him. Such is the [illegible] lency's official record, much of it made after two years' official consideration of the questions involved. We cannot, therefore, believe that the Governor and his friends will ask the Democratic party to adopt a resolution which would unreservedly disapprove of his official course; we cannot believe that he would ask the people to re-elect him in order to express their absolute disapprobation of his past administration. Such a proceeding would be a most singular anomaly in politics, and we believe the Governor to be too consistent and too shrewd a politician to engage in it. Such a course would manifest a lack of confidence in his own ability to do right unbecoming the Chief Magistrate of a State—would be an open confession of failure in office. Governor Haight has too much self respect, too much regard for his friends and his party to pursue such a course, people would naturally remark: "As Haight entertained and enforced certain opinions in March, 1870; as he expressed directly opposite opinions in March, 1871, how are we to know what will be his opinions and political status in March, 1872?" The logical results of such reflections in the minds of the people would be fatal to the candidate and damaging to his party. This is a fact apparent to any one.

A Matter of Boundaries

The Bulletin refers to an article in relation to the proposed readjustment of boundaries, which we published a few days ago, and makes this inquiry

Will our cotemporary inform us whether he means that the line ought to be drawn from the northern boundary of Washington Territory to the southern line of Oregon? and, if so, ought the region east of the Cascades to be erected into another political division, separate and distinctive from Oregon?

We will answer the last question first, since by this method an answer to the first one will more naturally follow.

It is our opinion that when Oregon was admitted into the Union the eastern boundary of the State should have been fixed at the Cascade mountains. We have heretofore given some of the reasons for this opinion. And inasmuch as it seems to us that the State, as to its boundaries, was at first badly constructed, we think it would be to the interest of all parts to have the boundaries readjusted by fixing them where they should have been in the first place. Therefore we think that the part of Oregon lying east of the Cascade mountains should be dismissed from the State and either erected into a Territory or be combined with the eastern part of Washington Territory and the Territory of Idaho, and a new State formed as soon as it might seem fit to do it. In our judgment this course would be much better for the eastern counties of Oregon. They would feel at home, so to say, in a political division only on their side of the Cascade [illegible] would be a community of interests and of feelings, of wants and [illegible] among the people of this interior political division which never existed and never can be created between those who live on opposite sides of this great mountain range. In short, the Cascade mountains are a natural boundary. There is no similarity whatever now on the topographical, climatic and other features of the regions lying on opposite sides of it, and the people of the two [illegible] always differ as much as to their wants and interests, as the two sections of country differ in their physical [illegible]

[illegible] Oregon was admitted into the Union Lane, who was then a power [illegible] upon politics, delivered a political speech at Lafayette, in which he related that there was much opposition in Congress to [illegible] with the boundaries [illegible] Douglas was then Chairman of the Senate committee on Territories, and [illegible] the Cascade mountains should [illegible] boundary of the State. Gen. [illegible] time he was in the Committee room when the matter was under consideration. Mr. Douglas walked up and down discussing the question. Stopping before a large map he drew his cane across it on the [illegible] indicated as the Cascade mountains and remarked "There is your natural boundary. There is the line marked by [illegible] eastern boundary of your State. [illegible] wholly west of the Cascade [illegible] And, as Gen. Lane related, Mr. [illegible] as well as to show why it would not be [illegible] include in the new State any of the country east of that range, and [illegible] the very inconveniences that have since arisen. Gen. Lane related this to show what opposition he had to meet in securing the admission of the State in its present shape; but [illegible] history which shows that Mr. [illegible] was very much wiser than Gen. Lane.

We will now consider the other question proposed by the Bulletin, viz. Whether we think [illegible] drawn from the northern [illegible] Washington Territory to the southern boundary of Oregon, thus including in a single political division the entire territory from the Straits of Juan de Fuca to the California line, and from the Cascade mountains to the ocean. In our opinion, so far as Oregon is concerned the annexation of the country north of the Columbia river and west of the Cascade range is of less consequence than [illegible] the present State of Oregon [illegible] the Cascade mountains. We do [illegible] and Puget Sound for an outlet. [illegible] Columbia river affords a very good channel for our commerce. Nevertheless there [illegible] why western Oregon and west[illegible] should be united in a single [illegible] reasons we have already made [illegible] the total dissimilarity of the sections [illegible] by the Cascade mountains, [illegible] to each other of all parts [illegible] range, indicate some of [illegible] Washington Territory, as now constituted feels the inconvenience as much as it does. The eastern and western portions of that Territory are totally unlike, and their interests are continually clashing. It would therefore, be better for the eastern part of Washington Territory to be separated from the western part, and to go with eastern Oregon. That the western parts of Oregon and Washington would find it to their interest to unite we have no doubt. Each, however, would be large enough and [illegible] resources enough for a State. Oregon, [illegible] Cascade range, contains about [illegible] square miles, an area larger than the State of Indiana. Washington, west of the same range contains probably 25,000 square miles, or as much territory as the States of Maryland, New Hampshire and Connecticut combined. We think it would be better, however, to allow all the region west of the Cascade range to constitute a single State, drawing the line from the southern boundary of Oregon to the northern boundary of Washington. But in our judgment it is not so essential to annex the western part of Washington Territory to Oregon as it is to divide the present State of Oregon by the line of the Cascade mountains. Inasmuch, however, as Washington Territory will soon want to divide in the same way, it might be as well at once to bring corresponding sections of the country together in the same political division, that is to say, to unite western Oregon and western Washington, and eastern Oregon and eastern Washington, attaching to the latter, portions, or all, of Idaho.

One more word to the Bulletin. It errs in supposing that in a previous article we "argued against natural boundaries." Our argument is for natural boundaries wholly; and no natural boundary on the continent is more distinctly marked than that of the Cascade mountains as the boundary as Oregon; and nowhere in the United States is there a greater difference in the general features of sections of country lying near each other, than is found on opposite sides of this great mountain range.

Chief Engineer Humphreys reports upon the river and harbor improvements in favor of continuing the survey of the Wallamet and Umpqua rivers of Oregon.

Well Put.

Among several excellent articles in one of the latest numbers of Harper's Weekly there is one upon the position of President Grant before the country, which is full of good sense, and consequently well deserves the attention of the public. The writer reminds us of the tendency of Democratic opinions as now professed.

It is by Democratic votes that Gen. Blair, who would have relinquished the victory in which he took part, is elected to the Senate. It is by Democratic votes that a portrait of Gen. Lee is ordered by the Virginia Senate, and a portrait of Gen. Thomas is declined. It is by Democratic papers that Gen. Longstreet is deserted, because he did not persist in his hostile attitude to the Government. It is by Democratic papers, in fine, that rebels are extolled, and the great results of the war are belittled. Meanwhile the leaders of that party are seen to be substantially unchanged. The old Copperhead element is supreme. The party orators and papers cry out against Republican extravagance and corruption, while in the Government of the City of New York the whole country beholds an illustration of Democratic economy and honesty!

WHAT THE ENGLISH ARE DOING AT BERMUDA.—People who object to the acquisition of San Domingo, at a cost of only $1,500,000, with 20,000 square miles of land, producing every variety of nature's most profitable articles of commerce, and half a dozen fine harbors, will be interested in learning from the following extract what the English people are doing at the little Island of Bermuda, whose whole commerce is in early potatoes and onions. Rear Amiral Lee, of the flag-ship Severn, under date of Bermuda, Dec. 6, writes to the Navy Department as follows

"Vessels disabled on our coast come here to repair and to refit. England has spent and is spending much money here in fortifications and military roads, and on its dock-yard and reef-passes. The floating iron dock, built in England and towed here last summer, at a total expense of $1,250,000, is a great success. It can dock the largest and heaviest ship in the world, can be readily used, its bottom can be conveniently cleaned, and it is calculated to last half a century. Now, iron ships can be well kept on this station, and the dock-yard, which is provided with admirable buildings for the repairs and victualing of a fleet, is to be promptly provided with additional factory power to the extent of its capacity and the requirements of a fleet for repairs after battle."

Because we urge that the Cascade mountains are the natural boundary of Oregon and that the sections of country on opposite sides of that range are totally unlike, the Herald, with that remarkable way of conducting an argument that is so peculiar to it, insists that we ought to have favored the secession of the Southern States. It will be time enough to say this when we urge that the country east of the Cascade mountains should be allowed to secede from the Union. At present we only urge that the boundaries of several political divisions within the Union should be adjusted on principles that would insure greater harmony among all. We believe the Herald has not yet fully declared itself on this subject. What has it to say?

The Tribune Almanac for 1871, is issued. We acknowledge the receipt of a copy from the Tribune Association. In addition to the usual political matter for which the Tribune Almanac has become indispensable, the census of 1870 for all the States is given, by counties,—an enterprise in which this Almanac is ahead of all other publications.

WASHINGTON FACT AND GOSSIP.

Both Houses have agreed to the resolution relative to the Chorpening fraud, with the recommendation that Chorpening be allowed to go to the Court of Claims if he has any case.

The appropriation desired for the Mare Island navy yard is $3,000,000. Mr. Sargent has charge of the bill in the House, and W. H. Davis, Inspector at Mare Island, is here to explain the necessities for the various items of the appropriation. Of course the reasonable expectation of the friends of the bill fall far short of this figure.

The Senate Finance Committee, on the 2d, had a long discussion on the proposition as to what action should be taken relative to the direct tax imposed on States which was suspended for some time on the late rebel States. It is proposed to relieve them from the payment of the tax. New York and Oregon also come under the list of States which have not paid their proportion of the tax.

An equestrian statue of General Grant is under way, to stand on the Terrace of the Treasury, and also a statue of Winfield Scott, which will adorn one of the public squares, the latter being ordered at the expense of the War Department. Clark Mills, an eccentric sculptor in the environs of the city, is also getting up by subscription a lot of figures for a war monument, and he has obtained possession of a quantity of brass cannon to be used for the purpose.

There is some talk of the President vetoing the bill which passed to repeal the test oath. He is advised to do so by such men as Butler in the House, and Morton in the Senate, on the ground that the time has not yet arrived when it is safe for the Government to restore ex-rebels to their political rights. It is stated that the bill passed the Senate through a misunderstanding, and that if it had to go before that body again it would be defeated. Should the President veto the bill it will fail, as it cannot command a two-thirds vote in either House.

The Senate Military Committee has before them the evidence in the case of the West Point cadets who are accused of maltreating certain cadets in the first class. The evidence shows that the son of President Grant and the sons of a number of men in the War Department and army were ringleaders in the outrages, and that on this account the officers of the Academy were afraid to punish them. The Committee will recommend that the strictest justice be done to all concerned, whether Grants or others. It is clear that officers of the Academy should be dismissed for not punishing them promptly.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

Bret Harte started on the 1st inst. for Boston to enter the broader field there open for him.

A Chicago paper has a Washington rumor that in March there is to be a general cleaning out of the Cabinet, Delano being the only one of the present set to be left in place.

Bennett has purchased the greater part of the block on which the New York Herald office stands, and will pull down the present building and erect a large and handsome one next spring.

Theodore Tilton will issue on the 1st of March, the Golden Era, a new weekly, to be devoted to the free and untrammeled discussion of Church, State, politics and literature, and it is understood that he has wealthy supporters and is determined to run in opposition to the Independent.

Another man has been discovered by the Democrats and named as their possible candidate in 1872—Judge Rufus P. Ranney, of Cleveland, Ohio, a lawyer on the Western reserve, formerly on the Supreme bench of the State, and the candidate for Governor against Dennison.

It was reported some days ago that the late Thaddeus Stevens had many shares of stock in the Northern Pacific Railroad. His executors have carefully examined his assets, and they report that he had no such property at the time of his death. The old man never dirtied his hands with bribes, whatever else may be said of him.

Chief Justice Chase and General Hooker are living in invalid association at the Brevoort House, New York. Hooker received the whole of his deceased wife's fortune, amounting to about $100,000, and it enables him to keep a pair of horses, and to entertain his friends handsomely. The Chief Justice looks emaciated and weak in body, but his mind is as lucid and good as ever.

J B. Monteith of Albany expects to start in a few days to take charge of the Nez Perces Indian reservation.

The Cascade Mountain wagon road company of Albany, sold 4,000 acres of land last week, at an average price of $1 50 per acre.

The Albany Register says there is a fair prospect that the enterprise to bring a ditch into that town from the Santiam will be pushed on at once. It will afford an immense water power.

In the Senate, January 18th, on motion of Mr Corbett, of Oregon, the resolution to authorize the withdrawal of the resignation of Roswell H. Lamson, Lieutenant of the United States Navy, was adopted. Lieutenant Lamson was appointed a Naval Cadet at Annapolis in 1858, and served with distinction during the war. He is the son of Mr. Jere Lamson, of Yamhill county.

The Statesman of February 11th says: Freight has been moving very lively of late. The Salem Mills are shipping 150 barrels of flour in barrels, Eastern style, 100 of which go down to-day on the Reliance. There is more freight offering here and at all points on the river, than the boats can take, and all of them are now out, trips being made constantly to Eugene. The Active and Reliance came down yesterday, and the Fannie and Albany went up. Mr. Cross is receiving 100 new pork barrels from San Francisco. There is some mistake about that. Twenty thousand laths have gone from this place to Albany by the river lately.

At Olympia there is a "Merry Bachelors' Club," which meets regularly for a "grand time."

The new Superintendent and corps of beet sugar makers are expected to arrive at Sacramento from Germany some time in March, when the Sacramento Company will engage in active operations in the beet sugar line.

W. S. Banks was shot and killed at Red Bluff a few days since by Pope Lansdale. They had considerable difficulty, growing out of the fact that Mrs. Banks was once engaged to Lansdale and the marriage was broken off by her mother. On the occasion of the shooting, both were armed and each fired several shots.

CURRENT NOTES.

The new census of New York shows a population of 944,129, an increase of 1,778 over the last enumeration.

The Pennsylvania Republican State Convention is to be held in Harrisburg on the 10th of March. It will nominate candidates for Auditor and Surveyor General, to be elected in October.

Rents and real estate are drooping at New York, their tendency is decidedly downward. No property is selling, and there is very little building; fewer contracts are outstanding for houses than at any time before in ten years.

The recent investigation into the affairs of the Methodist Book Concern has greatly stimulated inquiry as to the resources of that institution. The total assets of the New York and Western Concerns are $2,701,525; total liabilities, $1,207,205.

The special committee investigating Southern affairs will hold daily meetings, or as often as it can get witnesses before it. The Republicans of North Carolina and of Georgia promise to present evidence enough before the committee to prove the truth of all that has been alleged concerning outrages in those States.

A correspondent with the German army in front of Paris, writes that he has made some remarkable discoveries as to the different wood most available for cooking since the destruction of Saint Cloud. For instance, violins are the only suitable kindling when one boils eggs; pianos are best to bring out the juice in a beefsteak, and ceilings are capital for making toast. The idea that this statement gives of the condition of things in the Prussian camp is suggestive, to say the least.

The reports from the Indian country north of the Pacific railroad indicate much suffering among the Indians. The military officers at Forts Laramie and Fetterman report many destitute Indians daily arriving, and the Indian Bureau being wholly without funds wherewith to purchase supplies to feed them, it has been determined that supplies shall be furnished from the commissariat of the army until other arrangements can be made. The order to this effect has accordingly been made.

REV. A. L. LINDSLEY, D. D.,

Of Portland,

On Tuesday Even'g, Feb. 14, 1871,

At 7½ o'clock.

Subject—"Our Mother Tongue."

The language of a nation is the accumulation of the experience, the wisdom and the genius of a nation. The heart of a people is its Mother Tongue," and it is only by learning that Mother Tongue that you can know the heart. It is only while listening to the "thoughts that breathe and the words that burn" from the lips of her poets and her orators, her historians and her dramatists that you can feel that heart beating responsive to your own. Thus we have an argument of great power in favor of studying one's own Language, and therefore, to the American the study of the English Language is deeply interesting and important, not only for its great intrinsic merits, but also for its uses and applications to the great purposes of life.

Its History, its present structure and elements; its Contents, the literature of ages; its Speech, the Mother Tongue of increasing millions. Its copiousness and flexibility, its adaptedness and generosity qualify it for wider diffusion, and the people who fondly call it "Mother Tongue" is the most free, intelligent and enterprising among the nations. What then shall be its destiny? It is a sacred trust to be shielded from abuse and transmitted intact and pure.

"Old Saxon words, old Saxon words!
Your spell are round us thrown;
To haunt our daily paths and dreams
With music all your own;
Each one in its own power a boat,
To float remembrance brings
The earliest, brightest 'specs back
Of life's familiar things."

Dr. Lindsley takes a high rank as a ministerial orator. His sermons and Sabbath evening lectures are attracting a large and rapidly increasing audience. He has a rich, well modulated voice, and his style of eloquence is forcible, flowing, and often fervid and impassioned, abounding in illustration, metaphor and ornament—every expression being a fine specimen of "Our Mother Tongue."

MONDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 13, 1871.

CITY.

An Hour and-a half at Kalama.—Everybody goes to Kalama. Men with nothing to do go there to wait for something to turn up. Men —to have truck to sell, go there to see the state of the market. Men who have got tired of being seen around the old places, go there to exhibit themselves in new ones. Men with speculation in their eyes, go there to spy out the corner lots which are sure to double in value in ninety days. Men who can't make up their minds whether Kalama is to be the city of the Columbia Valley, go there to force the secret of the Company's intentions from the "lay of the land." Men who have no purpose go there because they have none. This man for this reason; that man for that reason; the other man for no reason at all—and, so everybody goes to Kalama. And, because everybody goes, we went, we saw and came back—all in one day; and, thanks to Capt. Hoyt, and Tom Merry of the Rescue, we had a pleasant day of it. The first impression one gets of the "city" is that it is a "city under the hill," a cluster of houses, shantties, tents, etc., hugging close under the base of what has been described as a "plateau," but which is really quite a hill. Viewed from the river, the plateau appears abrupt and to rise continually from the river bottom to the mountain in the background. This, however, is not the case, as it is said to be (after reaching the height of 190 feet), nearly level for a considerable distance toward the mountain. The bottom land in front of the town and plateau, has been cleared of the brush which grew there so that there now really appears to be a town "site." Most of this ground is, however, reserved from sale by the railroad Company, only one row of half blocks on the bottom being sold. Those lie about three to five feet below the highest water mark. The next row of blocks lie quite above high water mark. At the upper end of the present town, the ground rises at a regular, though rather heavy grade toward the plateau. There are about three streets running at right angles from the river, which go up this quite heavy slope. Further south or up the river, the streets run over very knotty ground, the surface being much broken by depressions, knobs, and little ravines. Further north or down the river, the streets run bang against a steep bluff, and either stop there or pursue imaginary lines up to the level of the plateau. All the lots upon which buildings are now erected are situated between River street on the west, First street on the east, and along the three transverse streets mentioned above. Until filling and ... heavy grading be done, the real, available ... upon which to build business ... a comparatively small tract—... eight blocks. Each block, ... twenty-four lots, twenty five ... feet. Whenever the railroad company shall be prepared to do filling, ... can be multiplied further north, or ... to drive piles, business ... be erected on lots any desired distance north along front street. The town, when it shall beg... thereon will extend up and down the river ... to, unquestionably, instead of ... back toward the plateau, even at the ... of piling or grading up. The plateau ... makes excellent sites for residences, but business will remain at its base. There are at present ... many hive of sixty men, outside of the company's employees engaged in business of one kind or another, mostly in trade or restaurants, ... putting up houses for speculative purposes. There are a good many men around whose principal occupation seems to be to whittle and bask in the sun (when the sun shines as it did on Saturday), lying on bales of hay or piles of lumber. A dozen or two of men were on Saturday prowling round the bottom land, or on the sloping portion of the plateau, or among the knobs at the upper end, occasionally spying out eligible lots as if with the intention of investing. How many people the company has at and near Kalama, we had no means of judging. Two or three gangs of Chinamen were at work with shovels or wheelbarrows at the wharf which was begun just opposite the steamboat landing. The road bed ... been ... for about an eighth of a mile. Beyond this the row of stakes can be seen for about half a mile northward. Near the upper end of the town and not far from the river bank the company's employees are engaged upon the foundations of a saw mill. Another force of contractors are at work excavating for a building in which the company's offices are to be located. What of the buildings thus far erected are rough board shells. Among the Portland men we saw there we may mention Captain Ingalls who has the largest stock of goods perhaps in the city and who is doing a good business. Mr H Seller, who has also a good stock of goods suitable for a new, rough town. B F Starr who has a tin shop, George Young, butcher shop. Captain Kerns, assorted goods, L C Fuller, apparently doing nothing, and a few others who were looking around. A few Portlanders were there on Saturday, who came there to buy or who had bought, and had gone down to view their possessions. While we were there an hour and a half, intelligence came from Portland announcing that this lot or that lot had been sold. One sale thus announced, included the entire frontage of a block (twelve lots) fifty feet some distance up the hill side. In another case, a Portland gentleman was deliberating about taking a lot near the business centre, and ... he was waiting and arguing the case to himself, a telegram came from Portland, announcing its sale. This quickened the gentleman's pulse a little, and he immediately snapped up a couple of other lots as the next best choice. There is one peculiarity about the ideas of all the men we talked with while there. In speaking of the future, they all used the expression, "If the company go ahead with this as their Columbia river ... of showing but nobody knows beyond ... what they can guess, whether the company will stick to Kalama or jump up some day and found another town higher up the river. The doubt in all men's minds about investing, seemed to hang ... that little pivot word, "IF." At present everybody is investing cautiously, going in only about as much as they think they can afford to lose in case Kalama should some of these days ... down to a mere way-station. And this is what we saw and heard in an hour and a half at Kalama.

An Answer not Fished For.—At one of our Sunday Schools, yesterday, the lesson was upon the history of one of the ancient wars, the particular subject of interest being the manner of dividing the spoils of a victorious foray into an enemy's country. A part of the army had stayed in camp while the others went out to fight, and these claimed an equal share of the spoils, while the fighting party claimed all. A rule was made by the king giving to each an equal share, and the person in charge sought to show that this was just because, though the fighting men might have seen greater hardships, the soldiers would naturally prefer to go into the field rather than be idle in camp. He wished to know if there were any men in the audience who had ever been engaged in a war. A man rose and said he had been so engaged. The parson then called upon that man to state whether he would prefer to engage in the stir and hustle and glory of the field or to lie idly in camp while his fellow soldiers should go out to fight. No one could doubt what the answer would be—the man, of course, would prefer the active field service. The man rose again and said, "Well, I can only speak for myself; but I should always prefer to remain in camp." There was visible sensation in that audience, and the parson's argument closed right there.

Serves a Double Purpose.—The Odd Fellows, when they erected their clock tower, little thought, perhaps, that they were doing a particular favor to the night pilots on the river below the city, but they did it. The tower being always lighted at night, serves the double purpose of a time-piece to the city, and a light house to the river pilots. As a steamer or vessel comes up past the island and enters the Swan Island channel, the clock tower appears in view almost "dead ahead," and as it cannot be mistaken for any other light, the pilots steer by it, when without it on a particularly dark night, they would have to send a boat ahead to place lights on the buoys. The steamer's head is held just a little off to the right of the light till the buoys are passed and then she veers a little to the left of it, heading toward East Portland. If an attempt had been made to plant a light purposely for the Swan Island pilots, it could hardly have been put in a better place than in the clock tower.

Card of Thanks.—The Sisters of St. Mary's Academy, in the name of their orphans, tender the expression of deep gratitude to the charitable "Brothers," for the concert given to assist the fatherless. May these kind gentlemen and the generous citizens of Portland, receive in return for their charity, riches falling like holy dew from the pure fountain of God's eternal love.

Business Notice.—Mr. A. G. Walling, job printer and book binder, has recently moved to new quarters on Front street, and is now prepared to do all styles of work to order and in the highest style of the art. He can do that sort of work, and no mistake.

AMUSEMENTS.

One Fine Theater.—There was a regular crush at the theater Saturday evening to see Jack Sheppard—a character in which Miss Lee Hudson won new plaudits. That drama, with a fancy dance, and the farce of "Nan, the Good for-Nothing," will constitute the bill for this evening. It affords a rare evening's entertainment.

Concert.—We again invite attention to the vocal and instrumental concert to be given at the Baptist church this evening for the benefit of that Society. The talent announced, assures us that there will be an excellent entertainment.

Jas. Cook's Rope Walking Feat.—The weather yesterday was most unpropitious for the sort of entertainments advertised to be given at East Portland Park. All the forenoon the wind blew strong from the south, and about noon it began to rain, and during the entire afternoon, the weather was cold and wet. So unfavorable was it, a very general impression prevailed that Mr. Cook would not attempt his rope-walking feat; and consequently there were comparatively few people in attendance—perhaps not over four or five hundred at any time. The platform was too wet for dancing, and the skates were not introduced at all. Only one of the balloons were sent up, the other being damaged by the rain. The one sent up, tilted, took fire, and descended within a half mile, a total wreck. At 3 o'clock Mr. Cook mounted to the rope, and almost immediately started, though the wind was blowing strongly and a drizzling rain was falling. He carried a balance pole about eighteen feet long. He started out a step or two, and his pole striking a limb at one side, he paused, swung the pole around so as to clear the limb and then walked forward to slow music by the band, as steadily and apparently as easily as if merely promenading on the ground. He went forward to about the middle of the stretch with only two pauses—one, on account of a tree which stood just within touch of his pole. Arrived at the middle, he stopped and balanced himself for a moment on one leg, and then went forward. As he neared the end, he was obliged to walk up quite a steep ascent, and he stopped once as if not sure of his footing. If there were any nervousness in the crowd it was just at this point of time, when it seemed quite possible that a slip on the wet rope, might precipitate the daring walker to the ground. Mr. Cooke, however, walked forward again, a little more slowly and carefully, but in a moment, as if reassured of the security of his footing, he walked faster, and finally when within a dozen steps of the end, he walked more rapidly than at any former point in his course, and with the utmost apparent confidence. As he reached the tree to which the rope was attached, the first applause came from the audience. He had done the feat with so little apparent effort that the crowd seemed to think it no "great shakes" after all. He had intended to walk back again; but walking down a steep, slippery grade is quite another thing from walking up, and after resting a moment, he came to the conclusion to not try the return trip, and throwing his pole down he descended by the limbs of the tree to the ground. The crowd immediately and rapidly left the ground, having spent a most uncomfortable afternoon. Nothing but the novelty of such a performance could have kept the people half the time.

School Exhibition.—There was a very large attendance upon the closing exercises of the Portland Academy Saturday evening. The performances were generally interesting, even to strangers, and were upon the whole very creditable to the pupil performers and the persons who trained them. The prizes heretofore announced were distributed as follows: John F. Dillon won the prize by Prof. W. S James, for the most improvement in writing during the term past. J. T. Brownie Rogers won that by Mr. W. W. Gibbs for the best speaking during the evening by the primaries. Miss Mattie E. Grooms, that by Mr. Rogers for the best speaking by academic ladies. Miss Maggie E Gray, that by Mrs. McGilbeny for the best singing during the evening. And Wm. H. Upton, that by Prof. Rogers for the best speaking by academic gentlemen.

German Sanitary Moneys.—The Deutsche Zeitung says that the German Patriotic Aid Association of this city, has received from a lady in Vancouver the sum of $130 as an additional contribution from a number of Germans in that place. The total now in the Treasurer's hands of the Association, since their last remittance, amounts to $705 50, which is expected to be considerably increased from the proceeds of a ball and raffle to be held for the benefit of the fund on the 20th inst. When we remember that these moneys so forwarded to Germany are used for the benefit of the wounded French and Germans in the hospitals of Germany, we can but say that the Association deserves to be supported. We remember that during our late civil war, similar associations existed in the principal cities of Germany.

Cargo for China.—The ship Hattie C. Besse sailed for Honkong, China, on Tuesday, the 7th. Her cargo consisted of 400,000 feet of lumber and 10,000 feet of spars, from Oak Point, W. T.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is no patent medicine humbug gotten up to dupe the ignorant and credulous, nor is it represented as being "composed of rare and precious substances brought from the four corners of the earth, carried seven times across the Great Desert of Saharah on the backs of fourteen camels, and brought across the Atlantic Ocean on two ships." It is a simple, mild, soothing, pleasant Remedy—a perfect specific for chronic Nasal Catarrh, Cold in the Head and kindred diseases. The proprietor, R. V. Pierce, M. D., 133 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., offers a reward of $500 for a case of Catarrh he cannot cure. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail for sixty cents.

THE
OR OREGON
RHEUMATIC CURE.
HISTORY:
THIS REMEDY IS COMPOSED OF THE ACTIVE principle of the Unk Weed, Eng—Thaspium, Cordatum, Origanics, Lat—Indigenous to Oregon—Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington county.
PROPERTIES, &c.:
It contains an active volatile principle extracted by Ether, and a bitter Tonic principle.
Medical Properties and Uses:
It is the most Sure and Speedy Cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that has ever been introduced in the Materia Medica. The Unk Weed Remedy as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a POWERFUL TONIC!
Promoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus building and strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being absorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Rheumatic Poison, removing it from the circulation and system.
There are few remedies known to the Medical profession, which will remove the Rheumatic poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfeebled Rheumatic patient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable. Hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence, heretofore incurable disease. Unlike these Medicines, already known, the
"Unk Weed Remedy"
Though producing as powerful and as active effects on the blood and system in removing the Rheumatic Poison, also possesses a strong Tonic and recuperating element, which admits of its continued use even in the most delicate and debilitated. Thus we have the combination for the first time of those two necessary elements in the one remedy, which accounts for its superior and never failing curative effects in
RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATIC GOUT
AND RHEUMATIC PAINS
Of all Kinds.

The French Attitude—A Pungent Illustration

[From the Nation]

M de Chaudordy the French 'Minister Delegate for Foreign Affairs has published an appeal to neutral nations on behalf of France, which for indifference to facts, surpasses any composition which has yet issued from the school He says that for "two months appalled Europe has been at a loss to understand the continuance of an unexampled war, which has become as purposeless as disastrous' 'People' he says "ask with amazement what can be the cause and what the object of such a struggle?" "What are we to think?' he inquires 'can it be that our enemies really wish to destroy us?" And he declares 'that it is a war of extermination Prussia pursues, and that she 'pursues it in disregard of all ideas of justice, right and civilization in the world When you have destroyed the armies of your enemy, and overturned that enemy himself, is it just that you should continue the war for no other purpose than that of annihilating or forcing to surrender a great capital, teeming with the riches of art, science and industry?'

When one remembers that Prussia has again and again made known that her object in continuing the war is to secure a better strategic frontier, namely the surrender of Alsace and part of Lorraine that the cession of territory by the vanquished has been the usual result of war since the dawn of history that France is herself largely made up of annexations procured through war, that she obtained Alsace and Lorraine in this way that she asked Prussia for the Rhine Provinces, and took Savoy from the Italians, for the very same reason for which Germany now seeks to push her dominion to the Vosges, and that Paris is an immense stronghold, with great fortifications prepared expressly, thirty years ago for the reception of French armies in case they were worsted when making forays on neighboring nations that it now contains 400 000 fighting men ready to pursue the Prussians in their retreat, in case they should retire—it must be admitted that M de Chaudordy surpasses even our own favorite sentimentalists in effrontery He reminds one strongly of the burglar who, having been detected in a gentleman's bedroom removing his watch and jewelry, and having fired a pistol at the owner, and offered a determined resistance when he attempted to arrest him, but having been finally secured and the police called in thus expostulated with his captors "You have taken my swag, my pistol and my knife from me, and you know perfectly well that if you let me go, I am ready to leave the house what, then, are you holding me for? Do you want to tear the clothes off my back or to murder me? Are you civilized men as you pretend to be, or savage cut-throats? It is true I have robbed you before, but my name was then Smith, I now change it to Brown, so that from Smith you have nothing to fear hereafter. I am well educated, and have been brought up under Christian influences, and have a house in which I can show a well selected library, and a few pictures, which though I say it that shouldn't, are of no small value I long to be back among them, and pursue my studies in peace I have tried to rob and murder you, to be sure, but I have failed, and I own myself beaten What more do you want? Is there no justice in heaven?'

TROUBLES IN THE ARKANSAS LEGISLATURE — A Memphis dispatch of January 31st gives the annexed

A special from Little Rock says the excitement over the Legislative embroglio and feud between the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor is intense The Senate, on meeting yesterday, found the chief of police with the entire force in the Chamber, as is supposed to eject Brooks, the Senator sworn in by the Lieutenant-Governor, in the face of the protest of a number of Senators The Lieutenant Governor was not present, and a Senator took the Chair and moved an adjournment till to-day, which was carried

In the House, the Chairman of the Committee appointed to ascertain if there was any malfeasance in the Executive or Judicial offices, submitted his report, with articles of impeachment against the Lieutenant-Governor for his action in swearing in Brooks under the circumstances and moved the previous question, which, amid great confusion, the House refused to vote—38 yeas to 39 nays The result was received with the loudest demonstration inside and outside the House This is the first defeat of the Governor's party A correspondent says feeling runs so high that he will not be surprised if the result is bloodshed

The "winter wind," and even the freezing waters of a pond into which some hapless skater had fallen is not so unkind as man's ingratitude The Humane Society of London, although corporations are said to have no sous has been touched to the heart by the perils of the thousands of people who resort to the parks of the metropolis for the exhilarating and healthful sport upon the ice, and has very considerately furnished them with an opportunity to help one another in case of misfortune At some little expense to its own scant treasury, it has put up boxes at the various ponds and "tanks," for contributions to be used for the sufferers by any misfortune on the ice - On New Year's day 30,000 people resorted to Regents Park to enjoy a day on the ponds, and the contributions to the benevolent object proposed by the Humane Society amounted to the munificent sum of sixpence Next day nine and a half pence were collected, and it is thought that if there should be plenty of cold weather in the course of the winter, enough may be obtained to pay for the boxes
